OC school district seeks applicants for bond oversight committee

If Oregon City voters approve the $158 million school bond on the November ballot, community members will have long-term oversight of project spending and implementation.

The district will appoint a Citizen Oversight Committee of 12 people to ensure that funds are used as voters intend.

Community members are encouraged to apply for a spot on the committee by October 26, so that if Measure 3-545 is approved by voters in the November election, the oversight committee could be informed and involved as early as the project planning stage.
